CASUALTIES OF YANKS IN RUSSIA LIGHT

AMERICANS LOSE 15 ALONG VAGA RIVER WHILE BOLSHEVIK LOSSES ARE 500

69 DIE OF DISEASE

Health of A. E. F. Excellent, Says Report; Food Conditions Serious; Allies Advance Southward Along Railroad

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Archangel, Thursday, March 13.—Compared to the losses inflicted on the enemy, the allied casualties in the fighting along the Vaga river since February 22 have been extremely light, it is estimated that the Bolsheviks have lost at least 500 killed.

The American casualties from February 22 to March 9 inclusive were 15 killed on the Vaga front and ten on the Dvina front. No officers were killed. One American soldier is missing and two officers and 30 men were wounded. The total American casualties to date in North Russia follow:

Killed in action, officers 4; men 71. Died of wounds, officers 2; men 67. Missing, men 86.

Died of disease, officers 2; men 67. Wounded, officers 11; men 241.

Health Is Excellent

The health of the expeditionary forces since the Spanish influenza has been excellent. Of the 65 deaths from disease, 62 occurred before January 4. As the newly mobilized Russian troops are becoming trained they are gradually relieving the strain to which the American, British and French forces were put in the early days of the campaign. All American troops are now enjoying regular rest periods, either at Archangel or in villages behind the lines.

Information secured by the allied food committee in North Russia and from persons reaching Archangel from the interior indicates that the American people must deprive themselves of breadstuffs until the Russian question is settled and the country is again placed on a sound agricultural basis.

Hesitate To Sow Grain

Because of the disruption of transportation, peasants are hesitating to sow any more grain than they see as necessary to meet their subsistence needs, as they fear its seizure by the Bolsheviks. Owing to the shortage of seed grain, which, because of the famine, has been used for food, Russia will be comparatively without crops in 1919 and this condition will extend into 1920 even if the country is restored to peace. Unless the situation is restored to normal, it will grow worse year to year.

"The outside world, particularly America, must be prepared to feed the most of the Russian people for at least six months after peace is restored," a member of the food committee said today. "And so long as Russia remains without crops the rest of Europe must also look toward America for the grain which formerly poured out of Russia's Baltic and Black sea ports."

One of the allied advance southward along the Murmansk railroad, part of another Russian province, Olonetz, was added to the territory of the government of the north.

COL. TURNER FAVORS BILL TO PAY SOLDIERS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, March 14.—Col. John W. Turner appeared before the senate committee on state affairs Thursday afternoon in favor of the Cunningham bill to give discharged soldiers three months pay.

"I think that this legislature should show their appreciation of what the boys have done," said Col. Turner. "It would take a large amount of money, possibly several millions of dollars, but I want to ask how much you would be paying if these boys had not stopped the drive on July 15."

Senator L. E. Cunningham, Beloit, author of the bill, urged the legislature to take immediate action.

Paris, March 14.—An analysis of the vote which closed yesterday's financial debate in the chamber of deputies shows that 146 deputies abstained from voting, which is interpreted as marking the dissatisfaction of a large section of the house at the indefiniteness of Minister of Finance Klotz's statement. The report was current to last night that M. Klotz, in consequence of what he felt amounted to a vote of censure, intended to resign.

This report, however, appears to be unfounded.

SOUND U. S. OPINION

Editors Disseminate Support Given Chief Executive by American People; Question Loyalty.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Thursday, March 13.—Brig. Gen. George H. Harries, commander of the American military forces at Berlin, has been here for several days to appear before the supreme war council to render a report on the military and economic situation at the German capital and throughout Germany. Gen. Harries has given a dramatic recital of events in Berlin during the last three months.

When the American party left Berlin the government forces had the upper hand and in Gen. Harries' opinion the government will control the situation, particularly if food is sent to aid in holding back the Bolsheviks from the eastern border.

600 Yanks in Germany.

The American forces in Germany consist of 80 officers and 600 men, he reports.

During the early stages of the fighting General Harries narrowly escaped injury. He was struck in a window of an American headquarters, watching a clash between opposing factions when a sniper's bullet grazed his breast and buried itself in a window casing by his side.

During the more recent disorders in Berlin the electric lights have been extinguished, street cars stopped, telephone and telegraph wires cut and stores closed, yet the public shows little evidence of panic. The rattle of rifle and machine guns echoes throughout the city both day and night, but the Spartacists bands have been gradually driven back and have lost control of strategic centers.

Prisoners Clamor for Release.

The editors who are supporting the government are also occupied with the present state of public opinion in America. The figure says that the United States, by shunning in the war and by the prominent role it is playing at the peace conference, has become one of the principal actors in European and world policies, but adds:

But will the United States desire to be of the same mind once the peace treaty is signed? Will it not rather yield and go home for good, leaving old Europe to work out its salvation by itself?

The sudden withdrawal of the United States would have regrettable consequences because there are several problems which we, the British, Italians and French would settle in quite a different way than Americans were willing to do, as can be judged, however, it does not seem that such an eventuality is to be feared.

Believe People Behind Wilson.

Making all allowances for internal political quarrels in America, it may be said that President Wilson's policy in its main lines is approved by a majority of his fellow citizens.

The demonstration attending the president's arrival in Paris, for his second visit lacked the magnitude of that upon the occasion of his initial appearance last December. Nevertheless it was spontaneous and cordial.

The people had been purposely kept in ignorance as to which railroad station his train would enter. The president had requested this, as he desired to come into the capital without being mobbed.

The people, however, had been fully informed as to which railroad station his train would enter.

Steps probably will be taken to return them tohurst by way of the Black Sea to avoid forcing them into the Bolshevik ranks.

EQUITY MARKETING BILL IS CENTER OF LEGISLATIVE DEBATE

(By FRED L. HOLMES)

Madison, March 14.—Because of the large number of people who desire to be heard on marketing bills before the joint committee Thursday afternoon, it will probably be necessary to have an adjournment hearing. Two bills were under consideration—the J. C. Hanson bill endorsed by the Equity Society and the special committee bill. The former provides for a state commission of three members and a consolidation of the work of the dairy and food commission, farmers institutes and immigration department within the scope of the commission, besides the general marketing features. The latter provides for a department within the department of agriculture, the market commissioner to be selected by the commissioner of agriculture.

J. C. Tittermore, president of the American Society of Equity said that the J. C. Hanson bill was not radical and that if the legislature could not pass the measure, then defeat it rather than attempt to present the people with a makeshift. Nearly all of the debate centered around the Hanson bill.

"I have introduced this bill as a member of the American Society of Equity, the bill which was prepared by the Society of Equity after careful and long study," said Asst. Assemblyman J. C. Hanson. "The friends of this state know what they want."

The first thing we believe in, is the complete power to organize farmers' organizations have been harried by the uncertainty of our law. Great monopolies have invaded our state and by unfair methods have controlled the product of our farms and factories. "The Society of Equity bill is based upon certain fundamentals:

"First—The protection of the consumer and producer against this discrimination and control by big monopolies.

"Second—The encouragement of organization so that a scientific basis of production and distribution can be brought about.

"Third—The standardization of products so that waste may be eliminated.

"Fourth—The organization of some administrative body to enforce the above.

Assemblyman C. C. Cox, Barron county criticized some of the features of the measure not definite. Henry Ohl, Jr., a member of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, spoke for the Hanson bill. J. H. McQuaid, of the railway trainmen; A. R. McDonald, of the locomotive firemen; and John Weeks of the engineers union all appeared before the committee in favor of marketing legislation.

Paul Huybrecht, Green Bay, said that labor had long known that there was great a spread between the price asked by the farmer for his product and the price sold to the consumer.

Speaker Young spoke in favor of the bill drafted by a special legislative committee. He was followed by Senator George C. Storino, who denounced the Hanson bill as "impossible and impracticable." Miles C. Riley said that the feature relating to exempting farmers from the anti-trust laws would not accomplish what the farmers thought it would.

24 DEFUNCT MARINES IN BERLIN ARE SHOT BY NOSKE TROOPS

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Berlin, Wednesday, March 14.—Twenty-four members of the defunct people's marine division were executed yesterday following their attempt to attack government troops in a building where the offices of the division's paymaster were located. In addition 250 members of the former sailor's guard were arrested to await the action of a military court.

The arrests resulted from a coup by men under Gustave Noske, the minister of defense. When he was informed of the location of the treasury of the marine division and of the fact that Tuesday was pay day for it he occupied the quarters in the early morning hours. The marines, who had been in hiding for several days, began to appear to draw their pay. They were promptly arrested and conducted under heavy guard to the Moabit jail. Two dozen of the men who attempted armed resistance, were not.

"SCRAP OF PAPER" TREATY REVISED

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Brussels, Wednesday, March 12.—Premier Delacroix announced in the chamber of deputies today that the treaty of 1839 between Belgium and Holland must be discontinued.

"The government will be asked to submit a new treaty which will be signed at a later date," he said.

"The government and the country will receive the decision with satisfaction," he said. "They will see in it the forecast of actions which will have a profound influence on the destinies of Belgium. On March 12, 1839, exactly 50 years ago, these walls heard the farewell of representatives of Belgian provinces which the execution of treaty was about to separate from this country. The house cannot but be moved by such a memorable coincidence."

The treaty of 1839 between Belgium and Holland ended an intermittent warfare which had lasted since 1830, when the Belgians revolted against Holland. It provided for the partition of the two countries. The treaty stipulated that the duchy of Luxembourg should be divided with the king of Holland retaining the fortress of Luxembourg. To compensate Holland for the loss of the rest of this duchy the province of Limburg was divided as well as the district of Luxembourg. The Sambre river was decided to be open to the commerce of both countries and the national debt was divided.

The treaty was ratified by France, Great Britain, Austria and Prussia, the powers recognizing the independence of Belgium as a "neutral state." It was this convention which on August 1, 1914, was cited as a guarantee given by Germany when she moved troops for the invasion of Belgium.

WOLVES OF THE SEA

BY RANDALL PARISH

"Then after that," Sanchez went on deliberately, as though murder was of small account, "you will follow me up the bluff. Who are the others with you?"

"Carl Anderson, Pedro Mendez and Cochose."

"Well chosen; Mendez is the least valuable, and we will leave him with the prisoner at the boat. The big negro, Cochose, together with Manuel can attend to Travers and the two negroes—they sleep below. That will leave you and the Swede to get the chest. No dreams if they can be avoided. I have been over the house and drawn a diagram. You can look it over in the cabin of the sloop. The stairs lead up from the front hall. I will go with you to the door of Fairfax's room."

"And you, señor—the girl?"

"What know you of any girl?"

"That there was one on the dock or the sloop—an English beauty. It was when you turned to greet her that you gave me the signal. I merely thought that perhaps—"

"Then stop thinking," burst forth Sanchez enraged. "Thinking has nothing to do with your work. If there is a girl I attend to her. Let that suffice. Dos! am I chief here, or are you? You have my orders; now obey them and hold your tongue. Bring the men up here."

The little band of men emerged from the concealment of the fog noiselessly. I could distinguish no faces, scarcely indeed the outlines of their separate forms in the gloom, but one was an unusually big fellow—Cochose.

"Lads," he said incisively, a sharper note of leadership in the tone, "it has been a bit quiet for you lately; but now I am back again, and we'll try our luck at sea once more."

There was a savage growl of response, a sudden leaning forward of dark figures.

"We'll begin on a job tonight. There are fifty thousand pounds for us in that house yonder, and I waive my share. Estada will explain to you the work I want done. By daylight we shall be on blue water, with our course set for Porto Grande. How is it, but does, do you sniff at the salt sea?"

"Ay, ay, captain."

"And see the pretty girls waiting—and hear the chink of gold?"

"Ay, señor."

"Then do not fail me tonight—and remember it is to be the knife. Esta, I have forgotten one thing—scuttle the sloop before joining me 'Tis better to make all safe; and now strong arms, and good luck. Go to your task, and if one fails me it will mean the lash at the mast-butt."

PETEY DINK—EVIDENTLY PETEY LOOKED MORE PICKLED THAN TANNED.

They moved off one by one, Estada leading, along the narrow strip of sand, five of them, on their mission of murder. The leader remained alone his back toward where I crouched, his eyes following their vanishing figures until the night had swallowed them.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Victory and a Defeat.

I arose silently to my feet, fully aware that all hope of thwarting this villainy lay in immediate action. Sanchez had turned slightly and stood with his face toward the bay. I ventured a cautious step forward and stood on the open sand, scarcely a yard to his rear. Some vague sense of my presence must have influenced the man, for he swung suddenly about uttering a stifled cry of startled surprise, as we met face to face. For at instant we were locked so closely within each other's desperate grip, his head bent beneath my arm, with my fingers clutching at his throat to block any call for help, that he possessed no knowledge of his assailant's identity. But the man was like a tiger. The surprise of attack was to my advantage, yet almost before I realized what was being done he had rallied, broken my first hold, and his eyes were glancing straight into mine. Then he knew me, his free hand instantly grasping at his knife. Even as he jerked it forth I crushed his wrist within my fingers, forcing his forearm back. There was no outcry, no noise, except that of our heavy breathing and trampling feet. Personal hatred had as tendency in both our hearts—I doubt if he ever thought of aught else but the desire to kill me there with his own hands. Only once did he even utter a word, hissing out the sentence as though it were poison:

"To hell with you, you sneaking English cur!"

What follows has to me no clearness, no consistency. Never have I fought with deeper realization that I needed every ounce of strength and every trick of wit and skill. Now I knew the fellow possessed greater knowledge of the game than I and a quicker movement; I excelled in weight of body and coolness of brain. Twice he pricked me deep enough to draw blood, before I succeeded in twisting backward the arm with which he held the blade. He met the game too late, falling half back upon one knee, hoping thus to foil my purpose. There was the sharp crack of a bone, as his useless fingers let the knife drop, a snarled curse of pain, and then with the raze of a mad dog, Sanchez struck his teeth deep into my cheek.

With a thrill of exultation I gripped the knife, driving instantly the keen blade to its full into the man's side. He made no cry, no struggle—the set teeth unlocked, and he fell limply back on the sand, his head lapped by the waves.

The fellow lay motionless, his face upturned to the sky, but invisible except in dim outline. I rested my ear move a muscle of my body in the water.

"How came you aft here?"

"Because that fellow leaped the rail from the wharf. I saw him, and we met at the wheel."

"From the wharf, you say? He was not aboard, then? Santa Maria!"

I know not what that may mean. Yet what difference so he be dead, Anderson, Mendez, throw that carrion overboard—no, bullies, never mind; let them lie where they are, and sink an auer in the sloop's bottom. What is that out yonder, Cochose?"

"A small boat, señor—dory, I make it."

"Cut the rope and send it ashore. Now come along with me."

The darker loom of the sloop vanished slowly, as the slight current sweeping about the end of the wharf, drifted the released boat to which I clung outward into the bay. There was scarcely a ripple to the sea, and yet I felt that the boat was steadily drifting out into deep water. I was still strangely weak, barely able to retain my grasp. Finally I mustered every ounce of remaining energy in one supreme effort and succeeded in dragging my body up out of water over the boat's stern, sinking helplessly forward into the bottom. The moment this was accomplished every sense deserted me, and I lay there motionless, totally unconscious.

Dinner Stories

Here is another story from Mr. J. C. Percy's "Bulls" and "Blunders." A cranky, impudent doctor was traveling third-class when a laborer got into the compartment and immediately lit a bright pipe. The tobacco was strong and the smoke got into the nose and mouth of the gentleman's eyes, nose and throat. At length he could stand it no longer, so touching the "son of toil" on the shoulder, he quietly remarked: "You will pardon me, but I am a medical man, and my twenty years' experience has taught me that all the bad cases of cancer of the tongue come from smoking bad tobacco."

"The Englishman, you say? He was here then? What was he you battled with?"

"He went down there, señor. The dog stabbed me three times. It was either he or I to go."

"You mean you threw him overboard?"

"Ay, with his ribs crushed in, and not a breath left in his d—d body. He's never come up, even—I've watched and there has not been so much as a ripple where he sank."

The two must have hung in silence over the rail staring down. I dared not advance my head to look, nor even venture to look straight into the eyes of his newly-made acquaintance.

"How long has that clerk been working for you?" he queried, indicating one.

"About 24 hours," replied the boss.

"I seem to remember him," answered the visitor.

"So he has. He's been here for four months."

A fond parent noticed his youngest, a boy, in a very animated conference with a number of other boys and a young woman, and that evening inquired of the boy what all the excitement was about.

"That was my teacher," said the boy, "and we were trying to explain the rules of football to her. She couldn't understand how she ever got to be a school teacher."

All Choked Up With Catarrh? Why Continue Makeshift Treatment?

Sprays and douches will never cure you.

Catarrh is annoying enough when it chokes up your nostrils and air passages, causing painful and difficult breathing and other discomforts. But the real danger comes when it reaches down into your lungs.

This is why you should at once realize the importance of the proper treatment, and lose no time experimenting with worthless remedies.

The highest good of life does not consist in an abundance of things. It consists in the power of the mind to discern the relative value and the proper use of things; and the determination of the soul to select and obtain things in the order of their worth and use them for another's welfare as well as ones' own. Kingdom of Heaven and Righteousness first; everything else in its order.

THIS AGED WOMAN

Was Made Strong by a Simple Remedy

The following letter from Mrs. Wells adds another link to the great chain of evidence which proves that there is nothing equal to Vinol to strengthen strength for feeble, weak, run-down nervous conditions.

Malone, N. Y.—"I am 84 years of age and feel well. I wrote to the manufacturer, asking if he would be kind enough to expose himself to danger in the interest of science and to give me the best of his mind and heart. He knew no answer could be realized. He remembered his fellow soldiers in the war. He began a weekly letter to the prisoners of the state penitentiary. He addressed them as intelligent men. Without patronizing or moralizing he gave them the best of his mind and heart. He knew no answer could be given yet he kept on writing. One day he got a note from the warden asking if it would be convenient for him to write upon heavier paper, as letters passed from cell to cell were likely to fall to pieces before they reached the thousands reader."

SOCIAL EVENTS

A double birthday celebration given with the accompaniment of birthday cakes was celebrated at the lodges rooms of the Triumph Camp, Royal Elkhorn, last evening, after the regular business of the camp was transacted. It was the fourteenth anniversary of the foundation of the camp and also the birthday of the supreme oracle of the order, Mrs. Eva Wilkins. A fitting celebration of the event was given by a suitable program and a surprise show of post cards which was given to the honor guest. The program included a piano duet by Misses H. D. Murdoch and Mrs. Olsen, a recitation by Edith Wilkins, called "The Last Rose of Summer." The song was given by Miss Clara Hawley, and illustrated by Gladys Ormond. An original song composed by the committee was sung which set forth the virtues of the camp after which the company adjourned to the dining room which was appropriately decorated in purple and the colors of the camp. Refreshments were served at two tables also decorated with the colors, all further adorned by the birthday cake illuminated with candles.

The Business Men's Dancing club danced at Apollo hall last evening. About 700 persons attended. The George Hatch orchestra furnished the music. A new dance was introduced called the "candy" dance. Circles were drawn on the floor and were numbered. A large white wheel was placed on the stage, which revolved and stopped at certain numbers. A couple was standing in the circle corresponding to the number of the wheel, who received a prize, a box of candy. Sixteen boxes were given away. The new dance created a lot of fun. Among the out-of-town guests who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levy, Chicago. These parties are held every Thursday evening.

Music will be a feature of the Beloit-Janesville basketball game this afternoon. Yesterday at the urgent request of the student body an orchestra was formed, composed of the high school musicians. The organization will be something of a hub and band club and should prove to be popular. This will hold their first practice tonight at 4 o'clock, an hour before the game is scheduled to start. Along with the music both the cheer leaders will be on hand and the old building is expected to ring with the yell of both schools.

Both Madison and Janesville entered in the league, each school to be represented by both affirmative and negative groups. The topic to be discussed this year is the proposed "League to Enforce Peace." Leo Dugan is the only man turned out this year who has had experience in past years, but under the coaching of A. G. Miller, a strong team is expected to be developed.

Beloit high school's basketball team accompanied by a car load of loyal rosters invaded Janesville, this afternoon, in the first game of the Beloit-Janesville basketball series. A large portion of the high school gym was reserved for them.

The game is scheduled to start at 5:00 p.m. and promises to be without a doubt, one of the most exciting contested of the season. The Beloit men are confident that they will cop off a victory as they are relying on comparative scores in the Evansville games. The Gateway City men were defeated twice by Evansville, while the locals met defeat at their hands at the Whitewater tournament. However, Janesville lost by only a few points, while Beloit was swamped in both tussles.

Regardless of whether the teams are evenly matched, it is a scrap between the two ancient rivals and the game is bound to prove interesting. Coach Cranmer announced at 3:00 this afternoon that he would start the game with his regular lineup composed of Rod, center; Sprackling and Nuzum, forwards; and Powers and Fisher, guards. Hager and Mc Dermott will be on hand to enter the key at a moment's notice.

LOCAL FIVE WILL BATTLE CAMP GRANT QUINTET TOMORROW

Janesville basketball fans will have an opportunity tomorrow evening, for the first time in the history of the indoor game in this city, to witness a team in action that is contending for the championship of the Central A. A. U.

Tomorrow evening the Lakota Cardinals, now playing at the Chicago tournament as the Olympia A. C., will meet the fast Camp Grant team at the armory. It will undoubtedly be the biggest game of the season in Janesville and preparations have been completed for handling the crowd.

Janesville fans will turn out en masse to welcome home the boys who have put Janesville in the limelight as a real basketball town.

Never before in the history of basketball has a Janesville team been a contender for honors in an A. A. U. tournament. In years gone by, excellent teams have represented this city during the basketball season, but they have fallen at the big test.

Camp Grant did not have an opportunity to meet the locals at the tournament and they are coming to Janesville direct from the tourney and extend every effort to prevent the Cards from wiping out the defeat handed them by the soldiers early in the season.

It will be a gala night for the fans of this city and regardless of who wins the final in Chicago this evening, the locals will be given a rousing reception.

It will be no disgrace for the Cards to lose their game to New London in the finals tonight. New London has been making their team for the past five years and basketball critics attending the tourney claim that the northerners have one of the greatest basketball machines in existence.

The lineup for tomorrow night will be:

Cards	Camp Grant
Kurst	Delmore
Taucher	Lubinsky
Braum	Hemsath
Williams	Moffett

ELMER MYERS MAY BE BIG WINNER FOR CLEVELAND CLUB IN COMING CAMPAIGN

Elmer Myers.

One of the bright lights of Connie Mack's emaciated ball club which he carbed around the circuit the last three seasons was young Elmer Myers, a pitcher. In the three years, 1916-17-18, that the team finished in last place with averages of .235, .396, .406, Myers won a third of his games. His total average was .360. His main fault was his wildness. WE HEARD FROM OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Eads Army Paper.
La Crosse, March 14.—Private Harry, former La Crosse newspaper reporter "put over" "The Barrage," the official publication of the 13th heavy field artillery in France.

It was not an easy matter either according to a letter which he sent a few days ago to the editor of the La Crosse Tribune. His first idea of publishing a paper originated a couple of weeks ago, writes Bailey. "We had to scour the country for a place to print a paper and finally located a shop at Munster Mifflin. Then we found we had no English type so after a couple of days more spent in hunting we found 100 cases. We rented these and started to get out one paper, which succeeded after considerable negotiation, in purchasing 5,000 sheets of paper, the last to be had, and after combing the regiment for printers we were able to get out a copy."

Descendants of Mrs. Guise make up a substantial family. There are five generations, her four children, 27 grand children, 59 great grand children and three great great grandchildren. Her oldest daughter is 76 years of age. A grandmother of Mrs. Guise lived to be more than 100 years old.
